

Considering CRUCIAL Truth In These Troublesome Days

An update of our DB2A Devotional Blog
(Taken from Kay Arthur's final devotional read in Search My Heart, O God ; 1999)

If you're going to live a life of peace, beloved, a life of rest and contentment no matter what your circumstances, you must never forget that you're a sheep—and God has provided a shepherd.

God's shepherd is not a hireling, so He'll never run away. He's a shepherd who came that you might have life and have it abundantly (John 10:10). The Lord is your shepherd, and you'll never want. He offers you a life of rest in green pastures, protection from your enemies, and the promise that He'll walk with you through the valley of the shadow of death. Nothing—not any situation or any person—can snatch you out of His loving hands.

So hold tightly to His grip, dear one! Whatever He does—whatever He permits—is all in love. Rest little sheep, your Shepherd is there. He's in control! When life comes to an end, you'll discover goodness and mercy followed you all your days. And you'll dwell in the house of the Lord forever. What can you do but bleat submissively and contentedly as He takes you into His arms?

Thank you, Jesus, for being my good shepherd. I believe Your promise that I am safe in the palm of Your hand, and I choose to rest there quietly, listening to the soothing sound of Your voice, as the storms of life rage all around me.

A note from us (Jon & Nancy) ...

Sincerely, just like some of the other devotionals we have shared with you over the past two decades, Kay's devotional is also filled with most encouraging counsel. You may wish to consider adding this work (titled above) to your library collection.
